

TATE LOOK GROUP PROGRAMME

A LOOK AT ROCK ART

The Launceston Tate Look group are taking a look back to the very earliest days of human artistic endeavour, hosting a talk 7 pm on Thursday 8th July at The Old School by the anthropologist and archaeologist, Jamie Hampson. Jamie specialises in indigenous rock paintings and engravings, some of which are over 70,000 years old. He is currently Director of the MA programme in International Heritage at Exeter University (Penryn campus).

In line with government advice, seats will be limited to allow for social distancing and pre-bookings only. To reserve your tickets, please contact Helen Adams 01566 782129 or Jo Pescod 01579 370200. Tickets £5, will be collected and paid for at the door. The Look group will be providing tea, coffee and cake and look forward to seeing you there.